

Shipping

Shipping

Steamers.

STEAM TO SHANGHAI.
The P. & O. S. N. Co.
Steamship
Kaiser-i-Bind,
Capt. G. W. ATKINSON
will leave for the above place on WEDNESDAY, the 20th instant, at Daylight.
R. H. WOODIN
Superintendent.

P. & O. S. N. Co.'s Office.
Hongkong, November 18, 1889. 21

THE SCOTTISH ROYAL STEAMSHIP COMPANY, LIMITED.
FOR SWATOW, AND BANGKOK.
The Company's Steamship
Thames,
Capt. JAMES KIRBY,
will be despatched for
above Ports on WEDNESDAY, the 20th instant, at Daylight.

For Freight or Passage, apply to
YUEN FAT HONG
Agents.
Hongkong, November 18, 1889. 2

EASTERN AND AUSTRALIAN STEAMSHIP COMPANY,
LIMITED.
FOR SYDNEY, MELBOURNE AND ADELAIDE.
(Calling at Port Darwin & QUEENSLAND PORTS, and taking through Cargo to NEW ZEALAND, TASMANIA, &c.)
The Steamship Meriville, Captain GREEN, will be despatched for the above
Ports on WEDNESDAY, the 20th Inst.
at 4 p.m.
For Freight or Passage, apply to
RUSSELL & CO.

Hongkong, November 11, 1889.

CELENA NAVIGATION COMPANY
LIMITED.

FOR PORT DARWIN, QUEENSLAND,
PORTS, SYDNEY & MELBOURNE.

The Co.'s Steamer
Tasmania
Nelson, Commander, will depart for
on THURSDAY, the 14th inst. at 10 a.m.
The attention of Passengers is directed to the Superior Accommodation offered on this Steamer. First-class Saloon and Dining salons, and cabins forward of the funnels.
Excellent Food, and a competent Crew and Crew. A Refrigerating Chamber, and the gratuity of Fresh Vegetables during the voyage.

For Freight or Passage, apply to
BUTTERFIELD & SWIRE
 Agents,
 Hongkong, November 15, 1862.

STEAM TO YOKOHAMA, VIA N.
SAKI AND KOBE.
 (Passing through the INLAND SEA.)
 The P. & O. S. N.
Sikamausi
 (S. J. Nizam) will leave for the places on FRIDAY, the 22nd instant Daylight.

E. L. WOODIN,
 Superintendant.

Hongkong, November 15, 1889.

COMPAGNIE DES MESSAGERIES MARITIMES.

PAQUEBOT POSTE FRANÇAIS

POUR SHANGHAI, KOBE ANI YOKOHAMA.

The Co.'s Steamship
"Langlois,"
Commandant. FLEURY
will be despatched above Ports on or about FRIDAY, the 15th inst.

G. de CHAMPEAUX Agent.

Hongkong, November 15, 1889.

HAMBURG
(Taking Cargo at through rates)
ANTWERP, A MSTERDAM, ROTTERDAM, LONDON, LIVERPOOL and BREMEN.

The Steamship
Duchess
Captain J. Vos
will be despatched for above Ports on MONDAY, the 23rd
at 10 a.m.

For Freight or Passage, apply to
SIEMSEN & A Sons.
Hongkong, November 16, 1889

THE CHINA SHIPPERS' COM-STEAM NAVIGATION CO.

FOR LONDON.

The Co.'s Steamship
Oposch
 C. H. Kern, Comm.
 will be dispatched
 above Port on or about the 30th Inst.

For Freight, apply to
ARNHOLD, KARBERG & Agents.
 Hongkong, Forembre 15, 1880.

---

Sailing Vessels.

FOR NEW YORK

The 3/3 L.L.I. American
 New Britain
 Clear 6/1

and will have quick despatch.
For Freight, apply to
RUSSELL &
Hongkong, October 21, 1860.

The M. M. steamer Yangtze, with the port

French mail, left Singapore at 10 a.m. on the 15th, and is due here on the

The P. M. Co.'s n.s. City of Peking, with the e Yokokama, on the 19th inst. expected here on or about 25th inst.

 e.s.s. Freiziger, with the German mail, left Colombo for this port on the 17th inst.
 e Canadian Pacific S. Co.'s s.s. Port Augusta left Vancouver for Yokokama, on the 2nd inst.
 e Canadian Pacific S. Co.'s Perithia left Vancouver for Japan, &c., on the 15th inst.
 e China Shippers Mutual S. N. Co.'s steamship Chi-goo, from Glasgow and Liverpool, left Singapore on the 12th inst. and is expected here on or about the 19th inst.
 e P. & O. extra steamer Nizam, from the 12th inst.; at daylight, and may be expected here on or about the 19th inst.

Union Line's, a. Lingfield, from London, left Singapore on the 15th inst., and may be expected here on or about the 21st inst.

Glen Line steamship Glencorchy, from London, left Singapore on 16th inst.

the 23rd inst.

DE D. R. s. s. Cassandra left Singapore on the 17th inst., and may be expected here on or about the 23rd inst.

DE S. S. Wingung from Calcutta, left Singapore on the 17th inst., and may be expected here on or about the 23rd inst.

DE S. S. Coy.'s steamer Dardanus, from Liverpool, left Singapore for this port on 18th inst., and is due here, on or about the 23th inst.

DE P. & O. Co.'s extra steaming Vernia left Bombay for Singapore and this port on the 14th inst.

There will be a game of Polo on the Racecourse at 4.30 p.m. to-morrow, Wednesday.

MAN named Yung Yang died in the Yang

a fall down the stairs of a home in Imman's Bazaar yesterday.

At noon, not having arrived till late yesterday evening, the opening of Woodard's Circus has been postponed till tomorrow evening.

Adolpho Loureiro was elected yesterday represent Manu in the Liabon Cortes.
He was the Government candidate, and he obtained 205 votes against 160 recorded for Jose Maria de Souza Costa e Costa, who was looked upon as the popular candidate.

We are glad to learn that very fine entries have been obtained for the next session.

names. They are for NO. 1, The Mitts and Hold 'em Stakes, 16 entries; 3, 10 Ball Race, 10 entries; 4, Ladies' No-limit, 19 entries; 6, Cigar Race, 6 entries.

_____

The Lorne Athletic Club, of the Argyle and Burnside Highlanders, gave another of their assault-arms entertainments in City Hall this afternoon. The last of a series of performances will be given tomorrow evening, when there ought to be a bumper house.

_____

Four men from Shanklin who could be dealt with at the Criminal Sessions ordered on the 11th, 12th and 13th inst.

prison, were brought before Mr Woodhouse to-day on a charge of being unlawfully in possession of arms, and were each sentenced to six months' imprisonment with hard labour.

MR LYNDS and James Patterson, two school-teachers, who were found leading a riotous life, were brought before Mr Woodhouse to-day as vagrants. As they have been "on the beach" for several months and are without occupation or visible means of support, Mr Worship sent them to the House of Detention.

On the Cricket Ground (yesterday) at 3 p.m. A tent, will be erected for the ladies, who are invited to present. In consequence of base-ball having played, no tennis or cricket will be put up.

The steamer Livingston, from Java with cargo, for the China Sugar Refinery, had to be sent into Manila about a fortnight ago on account of heavy weather. After a few days' delay she left for Hongkong, and, as she is now overdue, some fears were entertained for her safety. A telegram, however, was received to-day stating she has put back a week to-day to Manila.

Head of the A. & S. Highlanders will give the following programme on the Cricket Ground to-morrow afternoon, commencing at 4 p.m. —

Grand March	{ Triumphant	{ Robinson.
Section	{ "Reminiscences of all Nations"	{ Godfrey.
	{ "Golden Myrthen"	{ Farbach.
	{ "Hail Columbia"

Mr. Ackerman, of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of America, gave an interesting lecture in the Garrison Theatre to-day evening under the title of "Slaves under the midnight sun," in which he described the conditions of the slaves in there, and gave an account of the formation of a branch of the Union. There was a large audience, and the lecture was greatly enjoyed. The opportunity for signing the pledge was taken advantage of by a good many of the audience at the close of the address. Miss Ackerman spoke this evening in the hall of the Towns Home, commencing at eight o'clock.

W. have to acknowledge receipt, from Messrs. Kelly and Walsh, of a pamphlet on the "Ancient Symbolism Among the Chinese," being a reprint of a paper read before the Shanghai Y. M. C. A. by Dr. Edkins.

Professor E. P. Thwing, M.D., of Brooklyn, New York, who arrived in Hongkong by the steamer Belgic, intending spending some months in "China" and India, and is at present residing in Canton. The Professor has made mental science and anthropology special subjects of investigation, and will direct his attention to these lines of study among the races of Eastern and Southern Asia. He has travelled far and wide during the past thirty years, and his "Out-door Life in Europe, Russia, and Asia," has reached its 21st thousand. He proposes during his stay to lecture on scientific and literary topics, or to give educational entertainments.

The twelve subscription drawings which arrived by the Pachon were drawn for yesterday afternoon at Kennedy's Horse Repository. Hon. J. J. Kewick drew a grey with a record of 1 min. 36.5 sec. for six furlongs; Mr. J. J. Bell-drawing a black (1.39); Mr. S. J. Dwyer, a chestnut (1.36) and a white (1.34); Hon. A. P. MacEwen, a grey (1.36) and a chestnut (1.36); Mr. Donaghy, a nutmeg grey (1.37); Mr. G. H. Potts, a dark iron grey (1.42); Mr. W. C. Murray, a chestnut (1.36); Mr. Chantry Ingham, a chestnut (1.38); and Mr. E. A. Herbert, a grey (1.37). Not having a sporting vocabulary at hand, we are unable to say, in varied phrases, that each of the twelve is the best of the lot and sure to win a place.

The busy manufacturing city of Osaka appears from a perusal of official returns to be rapidly increasing in prosperity. Last month industrial firms in the City numbered 89-17 though being only in course of formation and not yet actively established. The aggregate capital was $7,785,000, with $3,953,221 paid up.—Japan Gazette.

Accessions to the Tokio natural history, the Government has decided to grant to Captain J. M. James, in the employ of the Naval Department, a pension of $1,000 a year in recognition of his valuable assistance to the naval authorities during his employment in their service.

Went ex-President Cleveland visited one of the schools at Marlboro, the other day, the Superintendent took the measure of the ex-President's foot with his eye, and before he left the building, after a hasty tour through it, the distinguished visitor was handed a handsome pair of shoes made had been only plain leather when he arrived.

Quite a number of counterfeit 10, 20 and 50 yen Japanese silver coins have been found by the authorities to be in circulation. The counterfeiters are said to be really good representations of the genuine coin, the only noticeable difference being in the dragon device. The authorities are on the look-out for the offenders, but up to the present no arrests have been made.—Japan Gazette.

The discovery of a fresh coal field in Oomori, Kanto, Japan, is reported. The Yokohama Specie Bank is said to be the best obtained in the Hokkaido. It also bears the Hokkaido-Tankō Railway authorities intend to construct a line to run from the mine to the port of Kurehito, a distance of 20 miles, for the transport of the coal.

Our report of the loss of the American ship Chester with nineteen hands, is, says the Japan Gazette of the 7th inst., substantiated by a telegram received yesterday from Aomori. It states that a joint service in memory of the unfortunate sailors who were drowned has been held by the various Buddhist temples in the neighborhood of the spot where the disaster occurred, and that the vessel was lying in 20 fathoms of water. Our Hakodate correspondent further confirms the report we published on Tuesday. To-day we wire as follows:—Chester total wreck; 19 out of 23 drowned.

The lighting of the principal thoroughfares in Yokohama appears as fast to be within tangible distance. Readers will remember that in July last the question was mooted by Messrs. Tanaka, Yamamoto, Kato Sakuragi and others who proposed to form a company for the purpose of carrying out an electric lighting scheme. Permission for the formation of the company was requested and the Nichi Nichi Shinbun this morning states that such permission has been granted. The company will be styled the Yokohama Electric Light Co., and its intention is to supply the Honcho and 13 other streets, the foreign Settlement and Kanagawa with electric light.—Japan Gazette.

The Roman Catholic Mission in Japan is evidently determined to go on advancing. It has now a journal of its own, printed in Japanese of course—The Roman Catholic or Tokyo Zasshi, the first number of which has just been issued. "As an initial effort the premier publication of this fortnightly magazine is decidedly fitting. The contents are, an article setting forth the objects of the Roman Catholic, primary amongst which is to 'make known' to 'true God' by Abbé L. Drouot de Lézy; an article on Pope Leo XIII. (with photo) by Abbé L. Drouot de Lézy; a Roman Catholicism and science by Abbé L. Drouot de Lézy; 'Contradictions of Parley's' 'Univert History' (correspondence) by Abbé A. Berlioz and various miscellanies.

The Osaka Mainichi Shinbun contains a few details of the very serious accident which took place in that city on the 3rd inst., and which involved, if the present returns are correct, a lamentable loss of life. The cause of the occurrence was at a theatre in Sanjichin; during a performance of the Harold's dance. The theatre was crowded, the day being a general holiday in honour of the Mikado's birthday, when, at about half-past two, the darkness enveloped the gallery completely to crash, and a minute or two later the whole structure had fallen in on the body of the theatre. On the debris being cleared away twenty persons were taken out dead, while over 100 others were found to be more or less severely wounded. Medical assistance was summoned as soon as possible and the injured were removed to the hospital.—Hiro News.

'Politicians' ink' has been invented by an ingenious Persian. This ink is warranted to fade and entirely disappear from the paper within a week, so that no compromising correspondence may be preserved to injure or hamper the writer and receiver.

The San Francisco correspondent of the Japan Mail writes: The Pan American delegates continue their junketing tour through the northern States. They are being shown everything which can convince them of the capacity of this country to supply their wants; if champagne can be so roughly convinced by the time the Congress reassembles in November. It is already having its effect, for we hear that at one of the banquets where the flowing bowl rhymed with the flow of soul, the delegates were so carried away that the representative of Chile, and they were occupied on each other's shoulders. If the junket can induce such fiascos to bury the hatchet, what may not be accomplished in the way of inducing South America to buy the cotton, woolens, and hardware from this country?

TRADE-GUILD INTIMIDATION.

Mr. Ma Kong and Lam Shin Tin, two men employed at the China Sugar Refinery, were brought before Mr. Wootton on remand, in the Police Court to-day, charged with assaulting another man employed at the same place. Mr. Wootton appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. Ho Wyeun for the defence.

The evidence showed that the complainant had been threatened some time ago by the head-coolies at the Sugar Works for refusing to join a trade guild and pay a dollar of entry-money, and that the defendants committed the assault at the instigation of the head-coolie.

Police-Sergeant Withnell said the head-coolie, a man named Ho Tin, had disappeared a few days ago.

Mr. Wootton said he must ask his Worship to inflict a severe penalty. Cases of this description were by no means unfrequent, and they ought to be stopped. In this instance there was a deliberate threat to beat the complainant if he did not pay the money that was demanded, and there could be no doubt that the defendants were employed by the head-coolie to carry out the threat. The whole circumstances of the case showed a seditious state of things which required to be rigorously dealt with.

His Worship said—If this had been an ordinary case of assault, I should not have thought it necessary to inflict heavy punishment, as the complainant has not been seriously hurt; but the mischief of this case is that it is one of those cases of a kind of intimidation which Chinese workmen are so fond of exercising. You don't seem to understand that a man has a right to do what he likes, and so long as he does not break the law nobody can interfere with him. If a man does not choose to join your society, whatever it is, you can't compel him to do so. If you do compel him to join, and assault him you break the law and render yourselves liable to every punishment. This comes to have been doing on now for a long time past, and this now, the complainant, has been subjected to intimidation for some months past apparently. Even supposing your society, whatever it is, is a perfectly legal one, which I don't think it is, if you come not to join it, you have no right whatever to compel him to join it and beat him for not doing so. So long as he carries on his own business without breaking the law, that is all he is concerned with, and if you choose to intimidate him to do anything which he does not like, and which he does not wish to do, you are liable to punishment. Not your trade union but nearly every Chinese trade seems to think they have the right to compel anybody belonging to the trade to do anything that the head man calls upon them to do. There is no harm in trying to persuade another man to join your union, but in doing that, you must keep within the law. The moment you resort to threats or violence, the law is broken, and all cases of that kind in which a conviction is obtained will be treated severely. It is not to be tolerated that you should threaten anybody whatever they choose from the workmen among them. If you choose to take your own measures and get yourselves above the law, you must take the consequences. The full penalty for what you have done, in assaulting this man, is one year's imprisonment with hard labour. I do not intend to inflict that penalty now, but I sentence each of you to four months' imprisonment, with hard labour. If there is any repetition of this kind of offence, you will be dealt with more severely. The police will be instructed to keep a careful lookout and send there is any further trouble over this matter.

THE CAMPOS CASE.

Luco Pereira do Campos, who has just been brought back from Japan by Acting Sergeant Robertson, of the Hongkong Police, on a charge of forgery, was brought before Mr. Wootton in the Police Court this morning. Mr. Wootton appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. Gifford for the defence.

Mr. Wootton said the charge against the defendant, as his Worship would see by the warrant, was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant was issued and a constable was sent after him, and last night he returned with the defendant. He (Mr. Wootton) was not yet quite satisfied with the formal evidence of the actual forgery at that moment, and it was therefore necessary to ask for a short remand. In the meantime, he proposed simply to submit the evidence of Acting Sergeant Robertson, who arrested the defendant, who was that of forging a cheque, the property of Mr. N. J. Robinson, the complainant. The charge was for a thousand dollars. After trying the charge the defendant escaped to Japan. A warrant

